SCREENCHECK EARNS CONTRACT WITH RTA

December 23, 2009 - ScreenCheck North America, LLC based in Fort Wayne, Indiana renewed a five-year contract with the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA) in Chicago, Illinois to produce and distribute Reduced Fare ID permits.

ScreenCheck (formerly Polaroid ID) has distributed cards for the RTA's reduced fare programs since 1999. ScreenCheck will provide those services as well as enhance the overall processes through a more efficient web technology to better serve the RTA and its customers. The five-year contract, which begins January 1, 2010, requires ScreenCheck to process all applications and produce ID permits for Senior and Disabled Reduced Fare, Senior Free Ride, People with Disabilities Ride Free, and ADA Paratransit customers.

"This contract to ScreenCheck will allow the RTA to continue a strong partnership for the production and distribution of the reduced fare permits," stated Vickie Bradley, the RTA Customer Service Manager.

ScreenCheck will produce up to 230,000 reduced fare permits per year during the contract period. Michael Fox, ScreenCheck President and CEO said, "The employees of ScreenCheck regard themselves as an extension of the RTA and will strive every day to provide great customer support to the RTA staff and its customers."
